Longshore and Pacific Maritime Association Negotiations underway

West Coast longshore negotiations impacting nearly 20,000 dockworkers at 29 West Coast ports began on May 12, 2014. The Pacific Maritime Association (PMA) and the International Longshore and Warehouse Union (ILWU) remain at the table working to reach agreement on a new coast-wide contract. The current six-year contract expires on June 30, 2014.

Freight forwarders, including Cargo Services, are closely monitoring the negotiations. If there is a strike, stoppage or slow down, carriers have already stated there will be cargo surcharges. We have prepared a Q&A that provides background and potential implications of this labor relations situation.

Brazil dockworker strike starts today

A nationwide dockworker strike is planned to begin today, June 10, in Brazil, according to maritime services provider Inchcape Shipping Services.

The strike is expected to affect operations in all ports across Brazil. A source speculated that the strike is timed to take advantage of the opportunity to attract worldwide attention, as the FIFA World Cup is set to begin on Thursday, June 12. Link to my website

GSP will not be reinstated

Cargo Services has received notice that the U.S. Customs and Border Protection Generalized System of Preferences (GSP) trade program has not been reinstated; therefore, importers will not be receiving duty refunds on their liquidated entries.

In the past when GSP was reinstated importers were able to receive a duty refund as long as shipment were entered correctly by using the SPI (special program indicator) of "A." The refund would have been retroactive. For more information please visit the CBP

Colts Books for Youth program. This statewide project provides foster children in Indiana backpacks filled with 25 age-appropriate books. To date, the Colts and DCS have collected more than 750,000 books for this program and have distributed more than 7,000 backpacks to foster children in Indiana.
